Order of service

Ceremony:

Ceremonies are set up in front of the room dividers with rows of seats and an optional red carpet central aisle. The ceremony takes place beneath the pulpit in front of the signing table.

Drinks receptions:

After the ceremony guests usually head outside for a group photo in front of the main church doors, then make their way upstairs to our restaurant attic space designed by William Leiper for a glass of fizz and canapes.

In the warmer months tables are reserved outside so guests can enjoy the use of a private beer garden. The theatre has its own exclusive bar for your use throughout the day, and can also be used as an alternative option for your drinks reception.

Wedding Breakfast:

Dinner takes place in the same area as the ceremony with the top table seated beneath the pulpit. The maximum capacity for dinner is over 11 tables with 8-12 on each. You have the option of a long or round top table. You also have the choice of cabaret-style or banquet-style seating.

Reception:

After the meal we ask your guests to make their way into the theatre bar area. The dividers would again be closed and the second room turnaround takes place. At this time your band or DJ set up and sound check. Tables are moved to beneath the balconies making room for the dance floor.

Set up:

Our dedicated wedding team dress the room according to your requests: including table dressing, cake dressing, setting up candy buffets, laying aisle runners etc. We're also happy to work with florists and other vendors to ensure the theatre is set to your exact specifications. We will then pack everything up at the end of the evening, ready for collection by 11am the next day.

Our Venue

Cottiers interior stained glass and decoration is by Daniel Cottier an internationally famous designer from Glasgow who lived from 1838 to 1891.

Cottier originally made his name decorating three Glasgow churches and Dowanhill Church, built in 1865-66 and designed by William Leiper, is the only church interior that survives from Cottier's early days as an artist decorator and stained glass designer.

Dowanhill Church, was in a dire condition when Four Acres Charitable Trust was formed to try and rescue the building and recover its glorious interior. The roof structure was failing and the steeple with its magnificent bell chamber was in serious disrepair. At that time the stained glass was intact but Daniel Cottier's decoration had been painted over in the 1960s. The magnificent Father Willis organ had also been mistreated and vandalised.

During the 1990s Four Acres Charitable Trust painstakingly restored the damaged roof structure and stonework and brought the building back into use as an arts venue supported by a popular bar. Named after Daniel Cottier, Cottiers attracted many famous names from music and comedy including acts such as Amy Winehouse and Bill Bailey.

Funds were then raised from the National Lottery Heritage Fund to restore the steeple and bell, conserve the stained glass and organ and its surrounding decoration.

During this period the international work of Daniel Cottier was fully researched with the publication of a book in 2021 entitled “Daniel Cottier, Designer, Decorator, Dealer” by Petra ten-Doesschate, Max Donnelly, Andrew Montana and Suzanne Veldink, covering the artist’s influential career from Australia to USA with lavish illustrations.

Four Acres Charitable Trust continues to own and operate the building and through the success of Cottiers it has been possible to support further restoration work and to make progress restoring another beautiful church building, Websters Theatre, formerly Lansdowne Church, on Great Western Road. The popularity of Cottiers as a wedding venue has over the past 12 years helped to make the continuing work of the trust possible.

May 6th 2024 marked the 40th anniversary of the date in 1984 when Four Acres Charitable Trust first took ownership of Dowanhill Church and began its transformation to fulfil its new role at the heart of the community in Glasgow’s West End.
